Tried out the Rhythm App by @Vishag T Product Manager, had my inhibitions but the Reset functionality worked wonders for me when I was under serious stress. Loved the way the inhale, exhale counter works. The 2 minute counter heloed to start a task as well.

Much need body doulsing sessions?

Much needed feature, maybe on Rhythm. I really like Rhythm's prospects, besides the previous feedback—have some new insights. Will share.

Hi @Atul Researcher Adhd Tinker & @Jeff Adhd , Rhythm has added "Pomodoro" feature...

I use this product daily. It's very useful. When I completed two minutes, I noticed the Pomodoro timer itz really good. Keep improving and developing the product. You're doing great, keep going!

Hi Vishag, I've been playing with parts of the reset part of Rhy and it's great. One thing I was thinking about- a day is usually a good one if it starts well-

So if the app can take screen control and suppress doom scroll apps like instagram, youtube, facebook, and WhatsApp event when first wakeup - a kind of cool off period till we are done with our set morning routine- for example in my case: writing my journal, exercise, meditation, and then I can pursue using the phone and task deliberation

Vibration is enough or mild gong, not too loud but enough to be heard above background noise. A bit long is good like 2-4 seconds. Blip blip had a gong option which i used to use. It was effective. Many people switch off vibration so that might be an issue.

Looks interesting. Are you doing this now? Will join and see if it works
